Disney Benefits by your side

Your Next Chapter

Your eligibility for Disney Benefits changes when you leave. Some end on your last day. For other plans, you can continue or convert your coverage. Whether you're moving on to another job or retiring, this guide will outline the decisions you need to make — and any actions to take — involving your benefits

What everyone needs to do

Update your personal information with the Disney Benefits Center or in NetBenefits to make sure you receive important benefits information after you leave Disney. You will also need to do this any time you move in the future.

- If you're an active employee, update your information in D Tools HR.
- If you've already left Disney, contact the Disney Benefits Center. If you have continuing retiree perks, like park passes or complimentary tickets, you must also contact Disney Global HR Operations.

Consider your streaming needs. Your complimentary streaming subscription will deactivate once you leave Disney.

Confirm when to expect your final paycheck and where it should be sent. Update your contact and direct deposit information if necessary. Contact Disney Global HR Operations for help.

Print out any remaining park admissions passes before your last day.

Make sure you understand your options for any Disney-sponsored retirement benefits you may be eligible for. Contact the Disney Benefits Center or visit NetBenefits for assistance.

Review your beneficiary designations to ensure that they're up to date. Support those who count on you by naming or updating a beneficiary for your retirement plan or life insurance benefits on NetBenefits and your Health Savings Account (HSA) on Optum Bank.

Getting ready to retire?

That's exciting! Disney Benefits will help you get your plans in order. Here are a few things you may want to do:

Call the Disney Benefits Center at 800-354-3970 as early as 180 days before your planned retirement date to speak with a Retirement Benefits Coordinator. They'll walk you through your benefit options and tell you what you're eligible for. Additionally, they can provide you with the CMS L564 Verification of Employment form that you'll need to enroll in Medicare (if applicable).

Watch your mailbox for information from Fidelity, Optum, and other benefits providers. They'll include information about next steps if you want to continue your benefits, about rolling over account balances, and more.

If you qualify for park admission as a retiree, keep your Main Entrance Pass for yourself and qualifying guests. Replacements for lost passes are also available. You will maintain access to your Complimentary Tickets on the gated Disney Retiree site.

Check your personal email (including your spam and junk folders, just in case). If you're eligible for a retirement gift, you'll receive an email with instructions three to four weeks after your last day. Save the Disney email address as a contact.

Plan your retirement for the last day of the month

If you're age 65 or older and eligible for a Disney Medicare Advantage Plan, you need to mark your calendar. To enroll in a Disney Medicare Advantage Plan, it's essential that your retirement date falls on the last day of a calendar month. That's because Medicare and Medicare Advantage plans take effect the first day of the month. To prevent a gap in health care coverage, and to save yourself time and stress, just pick the last day of a month!

What happens to your Disney Benefits

Benefit	What Happens	What You Need to Do
Health Benefits	See page 7 (under age 65) or page 9 (over age 65).	See page 7 (under age 65) or page 9 (over age 65).
Health Care Flexible Spending Account (FSA)	• Your contributions stop after your last paycheck. • Eligible expenses incurred up to your last day at Disney are eligible for reimbursement.	• The deadline to request reimbursement is June 30 of the following year. • If you have a high unclaimed balance, you may want to consider COBRA continuation coverage. Learn more on page 7 (under age 65) or page 11 (over age 65).
Dependent Care Flexible Spending Account (FSA)	• Your contributions stop after your last paycheck. • Eligible expenses incurred through the last day of the year in which you leave Disney can be reimbursed.	• The deadline to request reimbursement is June 30 of the following year.
Health Reimbursement Account (HRA)	• Your contributions stop after your last paycheck. • Eligible expenses incurred through the last day of the year in which you leave Disney, or the end of your COBRA medical coverage (whichever is later), can be reimbursed. Otherwise, they'll be forfeited.	• Use remaining funds by the end of the year in which you leave Disney or the end of your COBRA medical coverage (whichever is later).
Health Savings Account (HSA)	• Your contributions stop after your last paycheck. • All funds in the account, including Wellness Reward contributions, stay with you. • Optum will charge your account a monthly service fee.	• Use funds on eligible expenses anytime. • If your next employer offers a medical plan with an HSA, you may want to roll over your Disney HSA balance and avoid Optum service fees.
401(k)	• Paycheck deductions end for 401(k) loans in repayment. • Fidelity will send you information about your options, including distributions, rolling over your account, tax forms, and educational resources.	• Set up monthly payments for any outstanding 401(k) loans. • Contact the Disney Benefits Center to speak to a Planning Consultant about your retirement plans. • If your next employer offers a 401(k), you may want to roll over your balance.

Benefit	What Happens	What You Need to Do
Pension	• If eligible for and vested in a pension, you'll stop accruing additional pension service. • If you begin pension payments and also become eligible for a Social Security Disability Insurance award within 60 days of your last day, please contact the Disney Benefits Center to discuss your options, including the opportunity to suspend pension payments. • Watch you mail for more information on your options to convert or port your life insurance. If eligible, you must act within 31 days of your last day.	• If eligible and applying for pension benefits: – Contact the Disney Benefits Center to work with a Retirement Benefits Coordinator as early as 180 days before your expected retirement date. – Your Retirement Benefits Coordinator will work with you to explain your retirement options. • Employees with a union pension in addition to a Disney pension must submit documentation of the union pension value. Get an estimate of your union pension first.
Life and Disability Insurance	• Coverage for life and AD&D ends on your last day (unless you convert or port your policy). • Coverage for supplemental STD or LTD ends on your last day (cannot be converted).	• Leaving Disney following a medical leave of absence? Contact The Hartford for details on how your active disability claim will be affected. • Enrolled in COLI coverage from 1993? Contact the Disney Benefits Center to update beneficiaries.
Voluntary Benefits (identity protection; auto, home, pet, and legal insurance; Purchasing Power; long-term care (LTC))	• Paycheck deductions end with your last paycheck. Each provider will send you information about continuing your coverage via self-pay. Coverage ends on your last day unless you port your coverage within 45 days.	• To continue coverage, contact each provider separately, and arrange payment within 45 days of your last day.
Family-building Benefit	• Eligibility for any unfinalized adoption, surrogacy, or cryopreservation expenses ends on your last day. • Eligibility for fertility-related expenses ends on your last day, unless you enroll in COBRA for your medical plan.	• Submit adoption and surrogacy expenses within 12 months of your last day. • Submit cryopreservation expenses before your last day. • Enroll in COBRA for your medical plan to continue fertility benefits.
Long-term Incentives (LTI)	Contact Merrill for information about what will happen to any long-term incentives you may be eligible for upon your departure from Disney. See page 12.
Employee Stock Purchase Program (ESPP)	If you've participated at any time in the ESPP, contact Computershare for information about what will happen to your shares upon your departure from Disney. See page 12.

What happens to your health benefits (not yet Medicare-eligible)

Unless you're eligible for a Disney-sponsored retiree plan, your Disney health coverage ends at midnight on your last day. Your coverage options depend on your personal circumstances. Here are a few options:

Enroll in COBRA continuation coverage

COBRA is a federal law. It allows you to keep the same medical, dental, vision, and Health Care FSA benefits that you have at Disney — even after you leave — generally, for up to 18 months. However, it comes at an after-tax cost. Right now, Disney picks up most of the cost of your health premiums. With COBRA, you pay the full amount of your premiums, plus a 2% administrative fee.

Cost-wise, you're usually better off enrolling in your spouse's or partner's employer-sponsored plan (if applicable) or finding a plan on the Health Insurance Marketplace. If you decide to enroll in COBRA, you must do so within 60 days of your last day at Disney. As long as you enroll within the 60-day window and pay your initial premiums within 45 days, you won't have a gap in coverage. COBRA retroactively covers you.

When is COBRA the right choice?

COBRA coverage is expensive, but it could make sense for you. Here are some examples:

- You've met your deductible and/or out-of-pocket maximum for the year. Enrolling in COBRA doesn't reset your deductible or out-of-pocket maximum. If you've already met those for the year, COBRA premiums might cost you less than enrolling in another plan and starting over again.
- You or someone you cover has a big medical procedure scheduled. COBRA could be a temporary option to avoid network and schedule disruptions.
- You have a large balance in your Health Care FSA. Expenses are only eligible for reimbursement until your last day at Disney, unless you enroll in COBRA. If you have hundreds of dollars left to spend, enrolling in COBRA for your Health Care FSA only for a few months might work in your favor.

Will you or your spouse be turning 65 soon?

If you're still working and covered by Disney health insurance when you turn age 65, you can sign up for Medicare Part A (hospital coverage) and delay enrolling in Part B. But you must sign up for Part B so that it is in effect when you leave your job and/or lose coverage. With few exceptions, Medicare charges you a financial penalty for the rest of your life if you don't enroll within eight months of losing active group health coverage.

If you sign up for Medicare Part B after the initial enrollment period, your coverage starts on the first day of the month following your enrollment. It may take up to 60 days to get approved for Medicare Part B and up to three weeks to receive your Medicare card in the mail.

Join your spouse's or partner's plan

Losing coverage at Disney may be a qualifying life event at your spouse's or partner's employer to allow you to join their plan. That means your spouse or partner (if applicable) can check with their employer to see if you're an eligible dependent for coverage under their plan. Generally, your spouse or partner will have 30 days to enroll you from the date you lost Disney coverage. Everyone's coverage is different, so make sure to check with your spouse's or partner's employer, and review the premiums and coverage details of that plan before deciding to enroll.

Purchase coverage through the Health Insurance Marketplace

The federal government can help you shop for affordable medical, prescription drug, dental, and vision coverage via the Health Insurance Marketplace. Find out which affordable plans are available in your area by visiting HealthCare.gov.

What happens to your health benefits (Medicare-eligible)

Your Disney health coverage ends at midnight on your last day of employment. Your coverage options depend on your personal circumstances. To find out what you're eligible for, contact the Disney Benefits Center. Here are a few possibilities:

Consider a Disney-sponsored retiree plan (if eligible)

If you've been at Disney a while, you may be eligible for a Disney-sponsored retiree health plan.

- Continued Medical Coverage (CMC): Retiree medical and dental coverage if your most recent hire date is prior to January 1, 1998, and you meet age and pension service eligibility requirements and all other eligibility requirements in accordance with the applicable Plan
- ABC Retiree Medical and/or Life Insurance: Retiree medical and life insurance coverage if you were hired before January 1, 1989 (or March 1, 1989, for NABET employees), participated in the ABC, Inc. medical and/or life insurance plans, and you meet age and service eligibility requirements and all other eligibility requirements in accordance with the applicable Plan
- Post-Retirement Medical (PRM): Retiree medical, dental, and vision coverage if you were hired before January 1, 1994, participated in the Disney pension plans, and meet age and service eligibility requirements in accordance with the applicable Plan
- 21st Century Fox Retiree Medical and/or Retiree Life Insurance: Retiree medical and life insurance if you're a legacy TFCF employee hired, rehired, or acquired before June 12, 2002, and you meet age and service eligibility requirements and all other eligibility requirements in accordance with the applicable Plan

Even if you're eligible for a Disney-sponsored retiree plan, you must enroll in Medicare when eligible. You cannot enroll in a Disney retiree plan until you and any Medicare-eligible dependents you cover have a Medicare Beneficiary Identifier (MBI) on file with the Disney Benefits Center. You must file your MBI as soon as you receive your Medicare card in the mail. The Disney-sponsored plan covers remaining amounts for eligible expenses—up to plan limits—after Medicare pays its share of the cost. See the non-duplication clause in your Retiree Summary Plan Description for more information on plan limits.

If you're not eligible for a Disney-sponsored retiree plan, you can choose from a variety of Medicare-eligible plans offered through Via Benefits. See the Consider private Medicare-eligible plans section below.

Medicare

Most people aged 65 or older who leave Disney should enroll in Medicare for primary coverage. With only a few exceptions, you become eligible for Medicare the first day of the month in which you turn age 65.

About Medicare

Medicare comes in four parts, and you must enroll actively — and separately — in each one to receive coverage.

- Part A: Inpatient facility (hospital) insurance
- Part B: Outpatient facility insurance
- Part C: Medicare Advantage (private plans)
- Part D: Prescription drug insurance

Many people sign up for parts A, B, and/or D. Medicare Advantage plans (Part C) work differently. They're described below.

To enroll, visit Medicare.gov, or call the Social Security Administration at 1-800-772-1213.

When to enroll in Medicare

Most people become eligible for Medicare on the first of the month in which they or their eligible dependents turn 65.

If you're still working and covered by Disney health insurance when you turn age 65, you can sign up for Medicare Part A (hospital coverage) and delay enrolling in Part B. But you must sign up for Part B so that it is in effect when you leave your job and/or lose coverage. With few exceptions, Medicare charges you a financial penalty for the rest of your life if you don't enroll within eight months of losing active group health coverage.

If you sign up for Medicare Part B after the initial enrollment period, your coverage starts on the first day of the month following your enrollment. It may take up to 60 days to get approved for Medicare Part B and up to three weeks to receive your Medicare card in the mail.

Join your spouse's or partner's plan

Losing coverage at Disney may be a qualifying life event at your spouse's or partner's employer to allow you to join their plan. That means your spouse or partner (if applicable) can check with their employer to see if you're an eligible dependent for coverage under their plan. Generally, your spouse or partner will have 30 days to enroll you from the date you lost Disney coverage. Everyone's coverage is different, so make sure to check with your spouse's or partner's employer, and review the premiums and coverage details of that plan before deciding to enroll.

You can join your spouse's employer-sponsored medical plan with no penalty, even if you're eligible for Medicare. When your spouse retires, you'll need to enroll in Medicare.

Enroll in COBRA continuation coverage

COBRA is a federal law. It allows you to keep the same medical, dental, vision, and Health Care FSA benefits that you have at Disney—even after you leave—generally, for up to 18 months. However, it comes at an after-tax cost. Right now, Disney picks up most of the cost of your health premiums. With COBRA, you pay the full amount of your premiums, plus a 2% administrative fee.

If you're eligible for Medicare when you leave Disney and enroll in COBRA, you need to pay very close attention to enrollment deadlines and how Medicare coordinates with your coverage to avoid paying a permanent financial penalty:

- Medicare Part B: Within eight months of your last day at Disney
- Medicare Part D: Within 63 days of your last day at Disney

Penalties for Parts B and D are separate. If you decide to enroll in COBRA anyway, you must do so within 60 days of your last day at Disney. As long as you enroll within the 60-day window and make your initial premium payment within 45 days of your enrollment date, COBRA retroactively covers you.

Note: If you're age 65 or older and not enrolled in Medicare, your insurance provider may assume that Medicare is your primary insurance and only pay coverage on a secondary basis.

Consider private Medicare-eligible plans

Via Benefits offers Medicare Advantage plans, Supplement plans (Medigap), Part D prescription drug plans, and dental and vision coverage. Use Via Benefits to shop for coverage, get help considering your options, and find support before and after you enroll in a plan.

A different approach to Medicare Parts A, B, and D, Medicare Advantage plans are offered through private insurance companies and include additional benefits and services not covered by Medicare, generally, at a lower cost. You continue to pay Medicare premiums in addition to contributions for the Medicare Advantage plan, and the private insurance company pays claims.

Medigap plans supplement ordinary Medicare coverage. As the name suggests, Medigap plans give you coverage for services Medicare doesn't cover.

Note: If you're eligible for one of the Disney-sponsored Post-Retirement Medical (PRM) plans or the ABC Retiree Medical Plan, you're not eligible for Via Benefits.
